

A 'Tweaking' Good Time at <venue name>

The Tweaksters!: Fabulous Feats of Physical Fun! Their innovative mix of acrobatic dance and artistic juggling blends pure athletic creativity with odd objects in a rhythmic, crazy cool performance designed to tweak and delight audiences of all ages. "Specialists at transforming the mundane into the magical," (L.A. Times), Regan Patno and Julia Snyder "clearly have the sensibility to enchant children and goose the parents at the same time." (Daily News)

With the Tweaksters, you can't imagine what you'll experience next. From ping-pong air raids to glow-in-the-dark illusions to skillful feats of strength and balance, this hour-long pulse-quickenning adventure keeps audiences oohing and aahing. Sometimes regarded as "The Blue Man Group without the paint," the Tweaksters use their athletic prowess and fertile imaginations to deftly manipulate flower pots, meteors, luminescent ropes, and galvanized pipes -- not to mention each other -- tweaking all the way.

With abs of steel and muscles rippling, they explore the laws of physics and seemingly smash them to bits. It's dynamic, original, zany fun, and all without words.

This dynamic duo is as likely to turn up at Ft. Irwin Army base in the Mojave Desert, as in the Miss India pageant in Bombay. Showcased on cruises, half-time shows, festivals, industrials and taking center-stage at performing art centers and corporate parties. They have provided tea-time entertainment for English royalty and airtime entertainment on television shows domestically and internationally. They are strong supporters of physical education in schools, in homes and in the lives of all Americans. They also are members of the International Performing Arts for the Youth. The Tweaksters!: Fabulous Feats of Physical Fun! Are they more like the Blue Man Group without the paint or Cirque du Soleil without the high ticket prices? Dare to find out yourself.
